CLOSED DOOR HEARING FOR PACIFIC HERO

Washington, May 2—(P)—The 25 senators on the armed services and foreign relations committees have decided they won't let any other congress members sit in tomorrow on their closed door questioning of Gen. Douglas MacArthur about his differences with President Truman.

The decision, disclosed today, appeared certain to add more heat to the whole controversy boiling in Capitol Hill over the firing of MacArthur from his Far Eastern command.

Even before it became known, house Republican Leader Martin (Mass.), protesting against closed door hearings by the senate committee, demanded that similar house groups conduct a public airing of the matter.

Martin made public a letter to Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house armed services committee and Chairman Keesler (D-W Va.) of the house foreign affairs committee.

Some Republicans are arguing that too much secrecy in the foreign policy has led to mistakes. Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) contended that if the public and congress had known the contents of the Wedemeyer report on Korea they might have prevented many Communist advances in Asia.

This report, prepared by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer in 1947, warned that "Soviet-inspired" North Koreans might invade South Korea. Kept previously under a "top-secret" label, the report was given out yesterday by Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the senate armed services committee as a preliminary to the MacArthur hearings.

Backers of MacArthur's views on Far Eastern policy promptly claimed it proved administration policy in Korea and China was wrong.

The armed services committee, with 13 members, and the foreign relations committee, with 12, are to question MacArthur tomorrow as the first witness in a general inquiry into Far Eastern policy. Normally, the foreign relations committee also has 13 members but there is a vacancy due to the death of Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The decision by the two committees to close the doors to other members of congress means that (Turn to Page Twelve)

Williams, assistant executive secretary of the General Board of Lay Activities, Nashville, Tenn. All local laymen of the denomination are urged to attend this dinner and are reminded reservations must be made no later than Friday by calling First church office, 1853.

A. H. Templeton, Warren, who is district lay leader, will be presiding at the banquet program, which will include special music and presentation of charters to two new clubs, First church of Warren and Epworth church of Jamestown.

New Attempt in Senate to Legalize The Sale of Colored Oleo in State

Harrisburg, May 2—(P)—A new attempt got underway in the senate today to legalize the sale of colored oleomargarine in Pennsylvania.

Sens. Edward B. Kessler (R-Lancaster) and Robert B. Fleming (R-Allegheny) introduced a new bill to replace an earlier Fleming oleo bill which was killed by the agriculture committee.

The new bill was drafted to try and overcome some of the objections to other bills in committee," Kessler said.

The Lancaster Republican was the lone member of his party on the senate committee to approve the Fleming bill when it was rejected by a 10 to 6 count.

Kessler said all objections raised by the committee were con-

77-Year-Old Doctor Is American Mother of 1951

New York, May 2—(P)—A 77-year-old doctor—known as the "Grand Lady of the Blue Ridge"—has been selected as the "American mother of 1951."

Dr. Mary Martin Sloop, of Crossmore, N. C., was named for the honor yesterday by the American Mothers Committee of the Golden Rule Foundation, an organization devoted to the welfare of mothers and children.

She practices medicine with her country doctor husband, Dr. Eustice H. Sloop. Their two children also are doctors in the same county.

Informed of her selection, she said at Crossmore:

"I appreciate it more than I can say. I feel tremendously humble. My work was made possible by the wonderful help I had, and the type of children—mountain children—that I had to deal with."

She founded Crossmore School for Underprivileged Children and has been credited with bringing good roads, modern farming methods, religious tolerance, a hospital and dental clinic, and vocational instruction to Avery County, N. C.

Her daughter, Dr. Emma Sloop Fink, the mother of three children, practices at Crossmore school. Her son, Dr. William Martin Sloop, runs a dental clinic for charity cases.

Dr. Sloop was one of 52 mothers nominated by committees in the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Administration Leaders Seek New Support for Adoption of Proposed Income Tax Measure

Harrisburg, May 2—(P)—The administration hoped today to enlist new strength for its proposed one-half of one per cent state income tax as a result of a decision to hold a public hearing on the measure.

A top Republican leader, said a key bloc of GOP senators may relax its opposition to the levy if details of the measure are aired publicly.

The senate finance committee decided yesterday to sponsor a hearing next Monday of Gov. John S. Fine's entire tax program, including the controversial individual income levy.

The action came as a surprise since the administration had been adamant in its refusal to air the tax program during the stormy trip of the income levy through the house.

House Republican leaders were surprised at the decision to hold a public airing but declined to comment on the senate committee move.

They pushed through the lower chamber, however, the governor's proposal to increase the corporate net income tax from four per cent to five percent to raise an additional $44,000,000.

Chairman T. Newell Wood (R-Luzerne) of the senate finance committee said invitations to Monday's hearings would be sent to business groups and labor organizations.

In another senate development, the upper chamber postponed once again killing off legislation to give municipalities and industrial firms another two years to complete construction of sewage and waste treatment plants under the clean streams law.

Sen. John M. Walker, Republican floor leader, was joined by Gov. Fine in forecasting the dropping of the bill into the legislative discard.

Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter), a co-sponsor of the bill, also said the legislation would die in committee. He maintained, however, that the measure would have given temporary financial relief to hard-pressed municipalities.

In the house, an uncertain future faced the senate-passed loyalty oath bill because of a new U. S. Supreme court decision. The high court ruled that the U. S. Attorney general has no right to list organizations as subversive unless evidence is presented to a court and a hearing held on the organization's principles and purposes.

The disputed loyalty oath bill now in the house would require all state, municipal and school employees, including teachers, to take an oath that they are not members of subversive organizations.

Among the groups to be invited to the tax hearings next Monday are the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, State Chamber of Commerce, the State CIO Council, the AFL-Pennsylvania Federation of Labor and the Railroad Brotherhood.

WHERRY SAYS O'DWYER HAS TWO CHOICES

Washington, May 2—(P)—Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) said today that Ambassador William O'Dwyer should either "resign or clear himself" of charges fired at him by the senate crime investigating committee.

"Solely on the basis of the committee's report, it seems to me those are the alternatives open to him," Wherry said of the U. S. envoy to Mexico and former mayor of New York.

Wherry, the senate Republican floor leader, is not a member of the committee. Senators who are members declined any direct comment on whether they feel O'Dwyer should quit as ambassador.

In its report made public yesterday, the committee hit hard at O'Dwyer, who served as district attorney of New York's Kings County (Brooklyn) from 1940 to 1942 and as mayor from 1946 until last fall. At that time President Truman named him ambassador.

The committee said neither O'Dwyer nor his appointees to New York jobs "took any effective action against the top echelons of the gambling, narcotics, water-front, murder or bookmaking rackets." It added that "in fact, his actions impeded promising investigations of such rackets."

In Mexico City, O'Dwyer said he had no comment "at this time."

The committee, meanwhile, formally named a new chairman—Senator O'Connor (D-Md.)—and made plans to complete drafting of legislation which will be aimed at carrying out its recommendations for nationwide throttling of big crime and gambling syndicates.

The committee's report said, however, that the main housecleaning job must be handled by state and local authorities. O'Connor succeeds Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) as chairman. Kefauver, who had said he wanted more time to devote to other senatorial duties and to his family, remains as a member.

O'Connor told reporters that during the four remaining months of its life the committee will give first attention to writing perhaps as many as 20 bills to implement its recommendations.

Police Chief Kills Two In Struggle

Somerset, May 2—(P)—Confluence Police Chief Ned Hoyt shot and killed two of four men who attacked him last night in front of the Dods Hotel in Somerset.

State police identified the dead men as Wallace Conway, 56, and his son, Donald Wayne Conway, 30, both of the Little Somerset community.

Police gave this version of the shootings:

Four men jumped Hoyt while he was returning to the police station. Hoyt broke free, pulled out his revolver and fired one shot in the air. The men kept coming. He fired two more shots striking the two Conways.

Sgt. Howard R. Stevens of the Pennsylvania State Police said the men apparently had been drinking.

Earlier in the evening, police said the elder Conway broke all the windows in his house and set fire to the structure. Firemen put out the blaze with only minor damage.

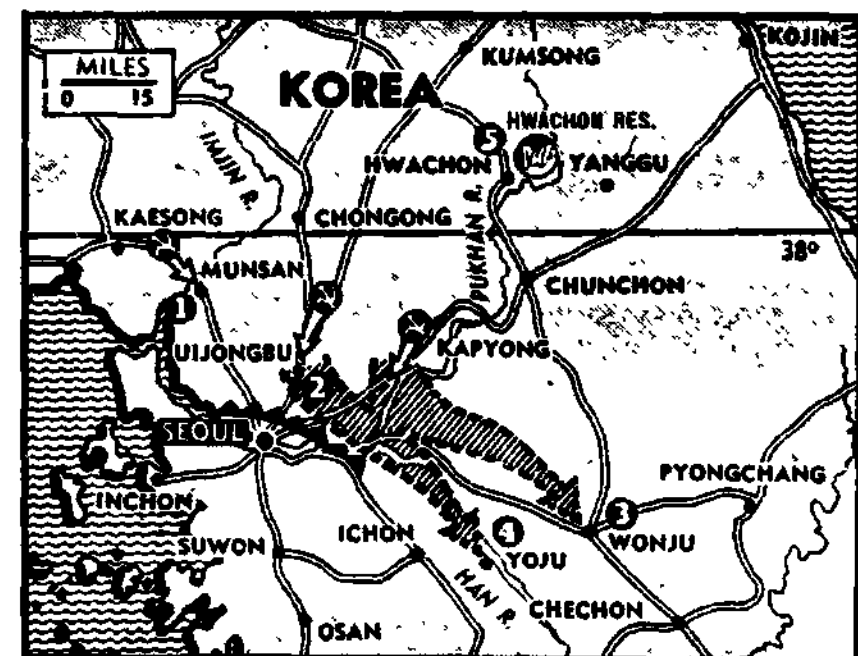

BACON FOR BRITONS

REDS PULL BACK, BUT MAY MOVE EAST—Casualty-riddled Chinese forces fell back from Seoul to the Munsan (1) and Uijongbu (2) areas, 21 and 11 miles northwest and north of the ruined capital. The Reds have moved up 300,000 fresh troops, and appear to be preparing for a drive eastward (shaded arrows) toward the 8th Army communications network below Wonju (3) and Yaju (4). The Communists closed the Hwachon Reservoir floodgates (5), but U. S. Navy Skyraiders blasted holes in the dam with aerial torpedoes in a spectacular attempt to stem the Red drive. By closing the gates the Chinese had hoped to lower the levels of the Pukhan and Han Rivers as a prelude to a smash across the shallow waters.

Alleged Shortage of Military Hospitals Under Investigation by Army Officials

By The Associated Press

A reported shortage of military hospital facilities is being investigated by the army with hope of an agreement whereby military cases may be transferred to civilian hospitals.

The probe was started, an army official in Los Angeles said last night, after disclosure of the death of an infantry private and a sergeant's infant son. Both had been denied immediate medical attention, the army said.

The army's investigation followed the report from Chicago of a father smuggling his soldier-son from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., after the soldier complained he was not getting proper medical treatment.

The army draftee, Pvt. Stanley Ambroski, 21, was reported improving from virus pneumonia at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital.

At the same time, the commanding general of Ft. Leonard Wood said a Kansas City soldier was not smuggled from the camp by three buddies last December and had not been refused medical treatment.

The soldier, Pvt. William Pettit, 23, is at an Armed Services Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., suffering arthritis.

In Los Angeles, Col. Sidney F. Dunn, commander of Ft. MacArthur, said that "the trouble is that military enlistments are increasing while medical facilities are being cut back."

At Ft. Leonard Wood, Brig. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, Jr., said Pettit "was never denied medical treatment x x x and he did not leave the fort without permission."

Respite For Three Condemned to Die

Harrisburg, May 2—(P)—Gov. John S. Fine today issued respites staying the execution of David Darcy, 26, Harold Foster, 26, and Harry Zietz, 21, all of Bucks county and Edward Hough, 34, Philadelphia, from the week of May 7 to the week of July 9.

The three youths were convicted in the slaying of William Kelly during a holdup in a tavern near Doylestown on Dec. 22, 1947.

Hough and David Almeida were convicted in the slaying of Cecil Ingling, a Philadelphia policeman, during the holdup of a supermarket on Jan. 30, 1947.

The governor said the respite for the Bucks county trio was necessary because of an appeal to the U. S. circuit court for Darcy. He said the Hough respite was necessary because Almeida's appeal still is pending in the U. S. district court.

TRAFFIC FATALITY

Pittsburgh, May 2—(P)—A borrowed auto collided with a trailer truck in nearby Homewood today, killing John Sears, 34, a Pittsburgh redcap. The truck driver, Henry Mock, 28, of point-of-Rock, Md., was charged with involuntary manslaughter.

HOMESTEAD INQUIRY IS LAUNCHED TODAY

Pittsburgh, May 2—(P)—Police Supt. Harvey Scott was summoned today to testify before the state's investigating grand jury as the inquiry into vice and racketeering switched from nearby Homestead to Pittsburgh.

The grand jury returned a presentment yesterday which recommended indictment of Burgess John J. McLean of Homestead, his brother, Constable Paul McLean, Police Chief Thomas F. Conlin, Fire Chief Herman Samuels, 17 policemen and more than a score of other Homestead residents.

The jury recommended McLean's indictment on charges of misdemeanor in office and fraudulent conversion. Conlin was cited for misdemeanor in office, bribery and conspiracy.

Navy Torpedo Bomber Attack Rips Holes in Hwachon Dam; Reds Massing For New Assault

Tokyo, May 2—(P)—The Red spring offensive has been stopped by "a great victory by the United Nations," Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today—but a new Communist assault is in the making. The Allied ground commander jubilantly announced "the enemy has failed."

The Reds lost, too, in their battle to control the rivers which must be crossed in the next phase of their spring offensive.

American naval planes skip-bombed gaping holes in the floodgates of Hwachon reservoir and sent water rushing back into the Pukhan and Han rivers. The Reds had closed the gates tight in an effort to lower these natural water barriers for an easy crossing.

As the rivers returned toward normal levels, U. N. tank patrols rumbled out Wednesday on Red hunts.

One tank force stabbed 11 miles north of Seoul to the Uijongbu area and ran into a Chinese ambush. Tankers buttoned down their hatches and fought their way back through Red attempts to set up a road block.

The present status of the Red drive was summed up by Van Fleet after a flying visit to the 10th Corps front. He said:

"We have punished the Communist forces severely. The enemy has failed in the first phase of his offensive. He has paid a heavy price (more than 75,000 casualties in nine days.) The first part of the battle has ended in a great victory for the United Nations."

Van Fleet made it clear he didn't consider this the final end of the Red offensive.

Communist forces, he said, have "the capability of hitting again as hard as before or harder. However, I am confident the results will be the same."

Every Red attempt in the drive so far has ended like the battle of the rivers.

The Communists closed the sluice gates Monday night to lower the level of the two rivers. That would make them easier to cross. The water level dropped sharply.

Skyraiders from the carrier Princeton opened the gates Tuesday. They swept in across the reservoir and skipped 1,000 pound bombs into two flood gates. First reports said they used aerial torpedoes but later A. P. Correspondent Tom Bradshaw said they used bombs with special fuses to cause the greatest amount of underwater damage.

One of the 16 floodgates was destroyed. A 10 foot hole was ripped in another.

Now the Reds will have to build bridges to cross the river. And their slow-working engineers will be easy targets for United Nations artillery and planes which blasted the drive out of the nine-day-old Communist offensive.

New Water Main to South Side Planned

Warren Water Company announced today it is asking for bids, to be opened June 1, for construction of an eight-inch water main across the Allegheny river a short distance downstream from the Hickory street bridge.

The new main is planned to augment water service and fire protection facilities for the south side. There is one main in use across the river at the present time.

The water company also is presently replacing a two-inch line in Alexander street, west of Conewango avenue, for fire protection purposes.

Wherever possible, the child's own description will accompany the work.

Musical numbers used in the evening's program have all been prepared under the supervision of Howard A. Andersen, with the assistance of teachers in the individual schools.

Many Emergency Cases Are Treated At Warren General

Several emergency cases were treated at Warren General Hospital yesterday, two of more or less serious nature.

William Dashem, 22 Jefferson avenue, employed at Sunray Electric, was rushed to the hospital following a fall from a roof at the plant to a concrete pavement on which he struck his head. He sustained a large bruise over the left eye, abrasions of the left elbow, left knee and right leg. X-rays disclosed no fractures, however, and he was discharged after dressings were applied.

James Sharp, 10, of Torpedo, sustained extensive lacerations of the right forearm in a fall from a truck at his home. He was sutured and discharged.

Barney Engelhart, 1 Hemlock street, sustained a sprained right ankle when he stepped into a hole while getting off a bus. He was discharged after treatment.

Virginia Stewart of Russell, sustained lacerations of the left wrist in a fall while playing. She was discharged after sutures were applied.

Donald McIntyre, of Tidoute, was brought to the hospital for x-rays following a six foot fall from a porch. He was discharged when no fractures were found.

Warehouse Ruins Keep Dep't Busy

City fire equipment was called again to the foot of Carver street yesterday afternoon at 4:33 o'clock when spot fires broke out in the old barrel house there, which was destroyed by a blaze about 24 hours earlier.

Firemen laid 450 feet of hose and spent about an hour soaking the remains for the fourth time.

Last evening at 7:25 o'clock, equipment was called on a box alarm to Conewango Place where an old wooden barn owned by Robert Lewis and used by Don Hoyer had caught fire from sparks from a bonfire in the yard of E. T. Johnson, 2 Conewango Place.

The blaze was quickly put out, and Fire Chief Charles Albaugh said this morning that he will order the barn torn down.

Letters to the Editor

King Ferry
New York
April 27th, 1951.

Dear Sir:
In reply to that of April 16th, I would like to take exception in fewer words perhaps, for words are empty entities in which to deal when considering life or death. This thesis of the 19th on the glories of vivisection can be homogenized into statement omitting the repetitious eloquence used by all who attempt to extol its virtues.

Vivisection is the cutting up and mutilation of living animals; artificial induction of disease and taking the sick pus therefrom, transmitting it to the human as serum and vaccines. Apparently these vivisectionists and scientists are fuzzy on their arithmetic for more plus more disease does not make LESS disease but leaves added dangers of future ailments by poisoned organs caused by these serums. Why not try the astounding method of trying to CURE the disease in the first place for vivisection and its products CANNOT CURE. Regulation of Laboratories can be managed in favor of the Laboratory by bribery etc and I wonder how welcomed would be any anti-vivisectionists on this Advisory Board mentioned. Why not have some of the vivisectioned animals as mute evidence for they are the parties of the first party that no one seems to consider. They are the ones with burns and scalds; organs protruding for observation; pain ridden bodies tortured beyond the ken of man, when the simple solution would be to stress and teach clean living and healthful habits. Sanitation and high moral standards. Less FEAR and more courage. Is this too much to ask of those in whom is entrusted our lives, or does it prove we cannot trust in man alone for without Divine guidance and a proper respect for Natures Laws we will get no further than we are today. Think it over.

Yours truly,
M. Dorothy Davis.

Boy Choir Plans concerts in High school June 13-14

Warren people again will thrill at two big nights of music and entertainment when Byron Swanson's 1951 Warren Boy Choir takes its first local full-dress appearance on the stage of the High school auditorium June 13 and 14. Numerous local and out of town audiences have already been enthralled by the youthful aggregation of choristers and their ambitious new show which ranges from the most difficult sacred and secular classics through well-loved popular songs to sheer zany comedy. In a fast-moving, colorful, four-section program, the boys' new repertoire appeals to everyone who loves vocal music at its best.

Competent critics report the choir has grown to an amazing musical stature under the inspired direction of Byron Swanson, voice instructor of the Warren Conservatory of Music. Adult and student tickets for both performances are currently available from choir members and their parents and from present indications, those desiring tickets should obtain them promptly, as the auditorium seating capacity is not great, and tickets may not be available later.

Much of Interest in Exhibit Now On Display At State

The long and highly interesting history of Warren State Hospital is now on public exhibit in photographic form at the institution. The 71 years' story of the tremendous growth and development of the hospital is dramatically portrayed in more than 300 photographs, collected from many persons and many sources by hospital attaches and friends.

April 30 marked the opening of National Mental Health Week, and the hospital will have a special Open House program on Friday, May 4, from 1 to 4 p. m., to commemorate the week. The pictorial history is on exhibition throughout the week and for some time after the conclusion of Mental Health Week.

Warren County residents will find much that is fascinating in this photographic review. From the day in 1880 when Warren State Hospital opened to receive patients, through the long years until the 1951 construction of new buildings, all the changes that have occurred can be seen in picture form. Many a well-known Warren County citizen is pictured in the style of dress that prevailed in his generation ago. The vast expansion of buildings throughout the years, representing millions of dollars of improvement, can also be traced in the exhibit.

It is expected that not only Warren visitors, but interested persons from the other 13 counties in the hospital district will look in on the photographic show.

Plans have been made for an electronic system which will keep us off TV sending antenna while programs are on the air.

The conference will be attended by representatives of several eastern dioceses of the Episcopal church.

ACCIDENT RECORD
City police report seven automobile accidents during April in the borough. In these, two persons were injured. There were no pedestrians struck, no bicycles involved and no fatal accidents. Property damage was estimated at $1171. In contrast to April, 1950, there were at that time eight accidents, two injured, two pedestrians struck, and property damage estimated at about $1250. Police cite 18 arrests for driving too fast for conditions during April as one of the factors responsible for the lowered accident rate, proceeding on the theory that some of those arrested would inevitably have been involved in accidents.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
Washington, May 1 — (P) — From now on the Truman-MacArthur dispute will be a little less than wide open. The senate inquiry into the case, starting Thursday, will be held behind closed doors.

The two big senate committees conducting this inquiry, armed services and foreign relations, will call the chief characters in the drama behind those doors to state their case.

They will include General MacArthur, Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, the joint chiefs of staff and their chairman, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and anyone else the committee wants to hear.

After each hearing most of what was said in private will be made public in question and answer form. But some of the questions and answers will be scratched out of the copies made public.

The omitted parts will, in the opinion of the senators, involve national security.

In the give-and-take of public hearing information of the most secret nature might be blurted out, perhaps providing the Russians with more knowledge than they could have obtained from a battalion of spies in 10 years.

At least that might happen. Yesterday the senators on the two committees had to decide between public and private hearings. A majority of them voted for the closed-door variety.

Whether this procedure — of telling the public less than everything — will satisfy the public that it has learned the whole story remains to be seen. But certainly this method also makes possible very damaging "leaks."

Leaks are not new in this city where so many people have notoriously been unable to keep their mouths shut. And since some testimony will be withheld, a "leak" can distort the importance of what has been withheld.

Further, not all leaks come out on the day when an event occurred, or a word was spoken. What is said today might be leaked next month or six months from now, preceded by waves of rumors on what was really said.

In short, less than fully open hearings may in the end create more unrest than the inquiry was intended to cure. But the senators had to make a choice, keeping national security in mind, and they made it.

It was only a little more than a month ago that private testimony by another distinguished military man, General Eisenhower, was leaked here in Washington. He talked privately to the same two senate committees.

That was on Feb. 1, after he had returned from a quick survey of Europe's military needs and made a public report to both houses of congress, sitting in the congressional library. He then talked to the committees.

On March 10 the leak came on some of what he had said behind closed doors to the senators. For instance, he said use of the atomic bomb against the Russians would depend on whether its military value outweighed its moral disadvantages.

Also, the leak said, he thought 12 American divisions, with sufficient air and sea support, could hold the Breton peninsula of France against any Russian attack. The Russians probably appreciated the information.

The failure of secrets to remain secrets in the senate was pretty well illustrated in the past few days in the case of the Kefauver crime committee's report.

For weeks the committee had been preparing this report on its sensational investigations of a year. It's a report, which will include recommendations on how to throttle crime, was to be published today.

But last week, before the report was finished, various versions of what the report would say leaked all over Washington.

TIME FOR LABOR TO GET IN LINE

When organized labor weeks ago bolted all national defense agencies, many observers carefully avoided condemning union leaders wholesale for what looked like a move potentially disruptive of the preparedness effort.

Insofar as the action reflected labor's irritation at the slowness of the government in warring against inflation, there was sympathy for the revolt.

Considerable feeling existed, too, that in his brusque insistence on getting the production job done, Defense Mobilizer Wilson had trod unnecessarily on labor's toes. Though he offered labor one of the top-level jobs in his office, the gesture was viewed as somewhat belated.

The rebellion was thought by some to have shock value to complacent dawdlers on the anti-inflation front—provided it did not last too long and thus begin to undermine needed joint effort.

This reasonably generous attitude seems to have been justified, now that labor has reversed itself and returned to the defense agencies. Continuance of the boycott surely could have produced only diminishing returns from labor's viewpoint, and it would likely have harmed the production performance.

In his speech at New York to America's publishers, Wilson spoke out fairly in beckoning labor back into the fold. He told union officials the welcome mat was out. He proposed only one qualification limiting labor's participation in top policy-making.

"Any man who walks through that door (of my office) must put on a government hat, with all that that implies," said Wilson. "I don't ask that the labor representative resign from his post in his union, but I do ask that he serve the people as a whole."

No sincere labor leader can quarrel with this. Some union men, perhaps too many, have a tendency to identify labor's interests with those of the whole American people. Any who do will have trouble in accepting Wilson's terms. For labor in fact represents only a segment of American society. It cannot take its rightful place in a cooperative defense effort if it presumes to do more.

Neither labor nor business nor the farmer should regard the defense program as a power struggle from one or the other must inevitably emerge victor. It is a joint effort for the common welfare of all Americans. The object is not to try to insure the biggest voice for any particular element in society, or even to safeguard the specific interests of competing groups. It is to make the nation secure against a grave external peril.

We must all hope that labor's most far-sighted leaders understand this and are prepared to exert their influence to restore full harmony in the defense effort without further delay.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

Reading of Czechoslovakia's arrest of A. P. correspondent William Oatis in Prague, one gets a feeling of helplessness. It's the old story: he's charged with activities hostile to the state, with gathering secret information and spreading malicious material about the Czech Communist government.

What good does it do to protest that none of the charges is probably true? Chances are that Oatis some day will be brought to trial anyhow, and convicted on the usual trumped-up Red evidence.

Not so long ago the average American reacted to an incident like this by demanding severance of diplomatic relations with the offending country. But more than once there's been a hint that perhaps that was exactly what the Reds wanted—to provoke us into getting out and closing up listening posts in Communist territory.

So what is a wise course? Possibly the only avenue is to try for some hard-headed deal which we would regard as sordid and cynical if a man's life were not at stake. Apparently that is the path we have chosen with Hungary in the Vogler case.

The rhubarb season is at hand — — — that is the common garden variety, used in making pastries and sauces!

Here And There

Borough officials fifty years ago were plagued with traffic problems, the same as they are today, only back in May, 1901, it was horse-drawn vehicles that were causing complaints, and not automobiles, according to the following paragraph taken from The Evening Times of May 2, 1901:

"It is customary in some sections to permit drivers to use the sidewalks to drive and stand upon while loading or unloading goods from wagons. This is particularly so on Water street near the Mill building. There is an ordinance strictly prohibiting this, and there is no good reason why it should not be enforced here as elsewhere. Merchants along the street would not think of driving their grocery wagons, for instance, upon the walks. Another evil that needs correction is the habit of permitting unused wagons to stand along the curb for days at a time. The south side of Water street from Liberty to Market street has become a little better than a dumping ground for all the cast-off trucks accumulated in the vicinity. It is a detriment to residents and business on the north side of the street. There is plenty of room for reform along the lines suggested."

This 'N That: May 7th will be the 95th anniversary of the first election of borough officers when John Andrews was chosen first burgess and the council consisted of Lansing Welmore, Zachariah Eddy, James Stewart and Albinus Stebbins. . . . That paragraph stating that Rodney Morley, sophomore, broke an all-time Warren High record in the recent meet with Titusville, when he ran the 880-yard run in 2:09, recalls that Bill Erhardt who ran it in 2:09.6 in 1925, now city engineer for Baytown, Tex., also engineer for the Humble Oil Co. in the same city, plans to visit the old home town this summer, when it is hoped he will have a chance to meet the lad who cracked his mark. . . . Patrolman Charley Musante looks cool walking around in his shirt sleeves for the first time this summer. . . . The new organization of Methodist Men formed in the First Methodist church, becomes one of 5,000 such organizations which Methodism's General Board of Lay Activities plans to charter by 1952, according to Chilton G. Bennett, executive secretary, who says the purpose of Methodist Men is "to throw its entire strength behind the total on-going program of the church in these crucial days." . . . Joyce Margaret Smith, Warren pianist, and Elizabeth Ann Scheuerman, Westfield, N. J., violinist, juniors in the music department in Seton Hall College, gave a joint recital in Cecilia Hall at the college last Thursday; Joyce is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Smith, 12 Conewango avenue. . . . Ralph Notoro, 806 Pennsylvania avenue west, who is a student at the State College rehabilitation school, has been elected editor of "Chit Chat" the paper that the class is expected to start putting out this week. . . . Bob Lunquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lunquist, and popular sportscaster and news commentator on WICU, the Erie Dispatch Television station, received some flattering publicity in the TV and Radio Guide, issued by that paper April 29th, in connection with a prediction he made recently when he ventured the guess that "it should" be Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Phils in the 1951 World Series. The article says "Bob figures the Phils to repeat because of a year's additional experience, and points out they are still a young and hustling club, while in the American League, though, he's picking the perennial 'almosters'—the Red Sox—as he's done ever since 1948." . . . Hal Boyle's dispatches, many of which appeared in the Times-Mirror, telling the GI side of the bitter fighting in the early stages of the Korean campaign have been turned into a television drama and will be presented as "The Thousand Yard Look" on the Pulitzer Prize Playhouse of ABC-TV a week from Friday night.

International Scholarship Plan Is Sen. Fulbright's Pet Project

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Arkansas Sen. J. W. Fulbright would much rather talk about his international scholarship plan than he would about mink coats and influence peddling in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The RFC investigation which he headed was a necessary evil in line of duty. But the scholarship plan which he founded and pushed through Congress is his real pride and joy. In the very near future, the names of from 90 to 96 Fulbright State Scholarship winners will be announced. There are supposed to be two winners a year from each of the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Some states, however, nominated only one candidate. The full quota would be 104.

The 90 or more state winners will be only a small part of this year's full Fulbright quota. In all, 700 scholarships will be awarded. The 700 are being picked from over 5000 applications. That shows how much interest there is in this plan. Selections are made by a Board of Foreign Scholarships. It is made up of ten leading educators and is headed by Dr. Walter Johnson, professor of history at University of Chicago.

EACH Fulbright scholarship winner, who must be a graduate A.B., gets a full year's study abroad, all expenses paid. The winners may study, lecture, teach or conduct research on approved programs. In addition to the American students who are financed for study abroad, an approximately equal number of foreign graduate students are given travel expenses for a year's study in American colleges and universities. And a still larger number of foreign students are given scholarships for study in American schools in their home country. Altogether some 3300 students will be beneficiaries this year.

The money to finance all this advanced study comes from the sale of U. S. surplus war property in foreign countries. When all the military stores which the United States had shipped overseas were disposed of at the end of the war, it was foreseen that the purchasing countries would not be able to pay for what they bought in U. S. dollars.

Senator Fulbright, a former president of Arkansas University and a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, then came forward with his plan. As an amendment of the surplus property act, he proposed that a part of the receipts from these sales, in foreign currencies, be made available to finance scholarships. Senator Fulbright advanced his idea as something that would help promote international understanding and world peace. It caught on and was adopted.

THE equivalent of about $140 million in U. S. currency was realized from surplus sales for Fulbright funds to finance scholarships. On a 20-year program basis, this makes available $7 million a year. It makes the average scholarship worth a little over $2000 a year. Such an amount, of course, goes far in a foreign country than it does in the U. S.

Fulbright agreements have been made with 20 countries for this exchange of students. Most of the agreements were made for an initial five-year period to see how the plan would work out. It has worked out, all right, and the agreements will therefore have to be renewed in 1952.

Sooner or later the problem of extending these grants and financing them from some other source is going to arise. Rhodes scholarships were financed by a private trust. They have been of tremendous help to the British empire in spreading its ideas to foreign countries. But whether the American taxpayer should be asked to finance a similar undertaking is another problem.

Reorganization of Sunday School at Garland Announced

Cole Hill, May 2—Rev. Howard Hartwright, union Sunday school missionary, was in charge of the reorganization meeting of the Garland Sunday school, when the following were elected as officers: Frank Sudul, renamed superintendent; Shirley McChesney, assistant superintendent; Clara Benedict, secretary; Blanche Holmes, assistant secretary; Frances Dey, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Eastman, librarian; Frank Sudul, adult class teacher; Mrs. Frank Sudul, intermediate class;

Frances Dey, junior class; Alice McChesney, primary class; Frances Dey, pianist; Charlotte Wentworth, assistant pianist. Sunday school will be held at 10:30 a. m. each Sunday.

Farmers are busy drilling in their oats, two weeks later than common due to the wet spring weather. Arthur Garber, Grand Valley, is spreading lime for the farmers by truck method.

Carol Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Holmes, Torpedo, celebrated her seventh birthday anniversary Friday evening with a wiener roast for invited school playmates.

Charlotte Wentworth, Charles Camp, Jr., Frances Camp, James Camp, Mary Vanderhoof and Tony Nodzak attended an "All School" play at Youngsville High school Friday evening.

John Baran and Walter O'Shea,

Murray Hill, were visitors on the hill Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wentworth and daughters, Clara Mae and Sarah, were Warren shoppers Saturday. Mr. Wentworth also visited his cousin, Lewis Cole, and family at Clarendon and Norman Cole at Stoneham.

Ralph Dyke, Lottsville, was a visitor on the hill Monday.

Fishermen who have been fishing Blue Eye, near here, report seeing some wild turkeys in that section. A resident of Miles Run, not far from Blue Eye, reports turkeys have been seen the past several years, and believes the birds are getting more plentiful.

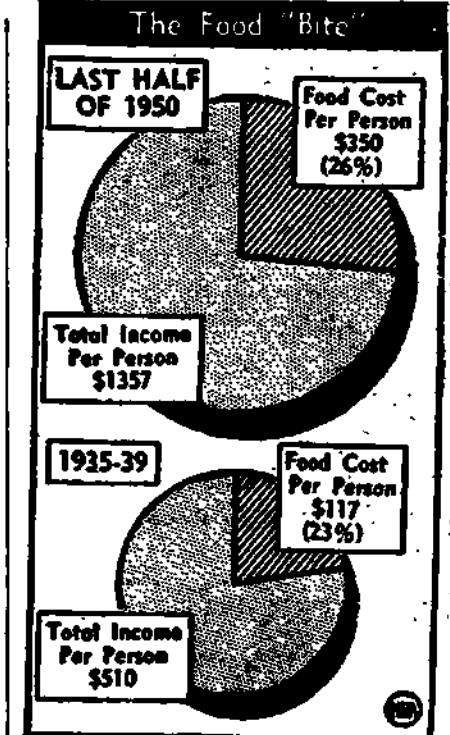

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raefalski, Georgia, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Raefalski, on Andrews Run near Pittsfield.

Albert Flasher, Union City, was a Sunday visitor of his father G. A. Flasher, Davy Hill.

Mrs. Margaret Smith and Mrs. Pittings, Pittsfield, were over the hill Monday selling tickets for the Minstrel Show being held next Friday evening in the auditorium of Youngsville High School. Proceeds will be used to build a Pittsfield Community house.

BINGO RULE ANNOUNCED

Bingo is out in Pleasantville, Rocky Grove and Seneca. Sheriff John Cunningham of Venango county said he has issued orders that Saturday night was the last for bingo in those places. Oil City is the only place left in that county where bingo is played. Titusville residents are taking advantage of that fact by flocking down there on bingo nights. Asked if he planned to restrict bingo in Oil City, Sheriff Cunningham said: "Oil City has its own law enforcement officers and I don't plan to butt into their business." Mayor Morek of Oil City had previously said that bingo "is not a form of gambling but a recreational pastime when operated non-commercially in churches, lodges and clubs as is the case here." Franklin had closed its bingo games recently.

Sure, your food bill is high, says the Agriculture Department, but actually it takes about the same percentage of your income as it did during the "normal years," 1935-39. The Newschart above compares annual rates of per capita food costs for those years with the same data for late 1950. Furthermore, the ratio is improving for the consumer, says the government. In 1947, food took 28 per cent of income; in 1948-49 it took 27 per cent, compared to 1950's 26 per cent.

He entered the hotel, strode past the desk and through the doors which led into the diningroom. He stopped inside, his gaze searching the long table. Jeff was near the far end and on his left side, Ed Keever and Al Sanders were at this end, but it is doubtful if Buddy even saw them. His burning gaze was fixed on Jeff and as though drawn by the intensity of that gaze Jeff raised his eyes from his plate and saw him.

Buddy stepped forward and said, "I told you to keep clear of me, Payne! Now you lousy son of a pup, I'll—" His hand stabbed for the gun at his hip.

NOBODY had time to act, and it seemed as though Jeff would surely get it in the next second. Instinctively he thrust backwards and a slippery floor helped him. The chair slid back and he came to his feet, his hand automatically finding his gun and flipping it from the holster with the combine arm and wrist movement which becomes instinctive to the gunman.

He fired over the head of the man at his right, but even as he fired he pulled the gun slightly out of line. To kill that boy, weaving on his feet with drunkenness, would be plain murder.

Buddy's gun was just clearing leather when Jeff's bullet struck him. It hit him in the shoulder and the impact swung him completely around. He staggered, got his feet tangled and went down. Before he could get up again Ed Keever and Marshall Sanders were on him. Buddy's numbed fingers had let go his gun and it lay on the floor.

He struggled, cursing them for interfering, and Ed Keever said fiercely, "Shut up, you danged fool! And thank God that Payne didn't kill you."

"He can't kill me! I'm as good a man as he is! Let me go!" Sanders, with a deft motion, snatched handcuffs on his wrists. "Whoa up, son," he warned.

Son! Again that youthful term that Buddy had come to regard as a reflection on his manhood. A change came over him; he ceased struggling and let his muscles go lax. Son! He'd show them.

They held him for a moment longer, felt the resistance go out of him and then let him go. Ed Keever stepped back a pace and Sanders turned away, his gaze on Jeff, who still stood at the far end of the table. "Want to prefer charges, Payne?"

Jeff looked steadily at Buddy, then shook his head. "No. The boy's drunk. Probably got a whiff of the bar towel. Look him up until he's sober then turn him loose."

It was the crowning humiliation and probably Buddy himself did not realize just how and why he did it. The marshal's right hip was a foot in front of his manacled hands and on that hip swung a big .44 Colt. With a sudden swift movement Buddy reached out and snatched the gun from its holster. He whipped it up, holding it with both hands, and fired.

Ed Keever cried out and lunged at him, striking the gun aside. Sanders wheeled and Buddy, suddenly sobered, backed away, the gun threatening them. He snatched, "I'll kill the man that moves, so help me!"

He backed through the doorway, kept backing until he reached the front door. He turned then and ran down the steps and leaped on the first horse he saw.

At the far end of the diningroom, Jeff Payne lay on his back on the floor. His eyes were closed in unconsciousness and blood was oozing over his face.

When Jeff awoke a bewhiskered Santa Claus was watching him intently and fingers were pinning a head bandage in place. Santa Claus said, "Hold still a minute while I finish up. Feeling pretty rocky, eh?"

Jeff discovered that he was feeling very rocky indeed. He succeeded in moving his head and saw that he was stretched out on a table at one side of the diningroom, and a glimpse of a black bag yawning on a chair told him that Santa Claus was a doctor. Standing off at one side was the hotel clerk.

Jeff asked, "Not bad, is it, Doc?"

"Not bad at all. I had to do a bit of hemstitching but there's no fracture." He stuffed some things into the bag, closed it and turned. "You'll have a nice headache for the pain. Get a room and go to bed and you'll probably be all right in a few days."

"What happened to Buddy Starr?"

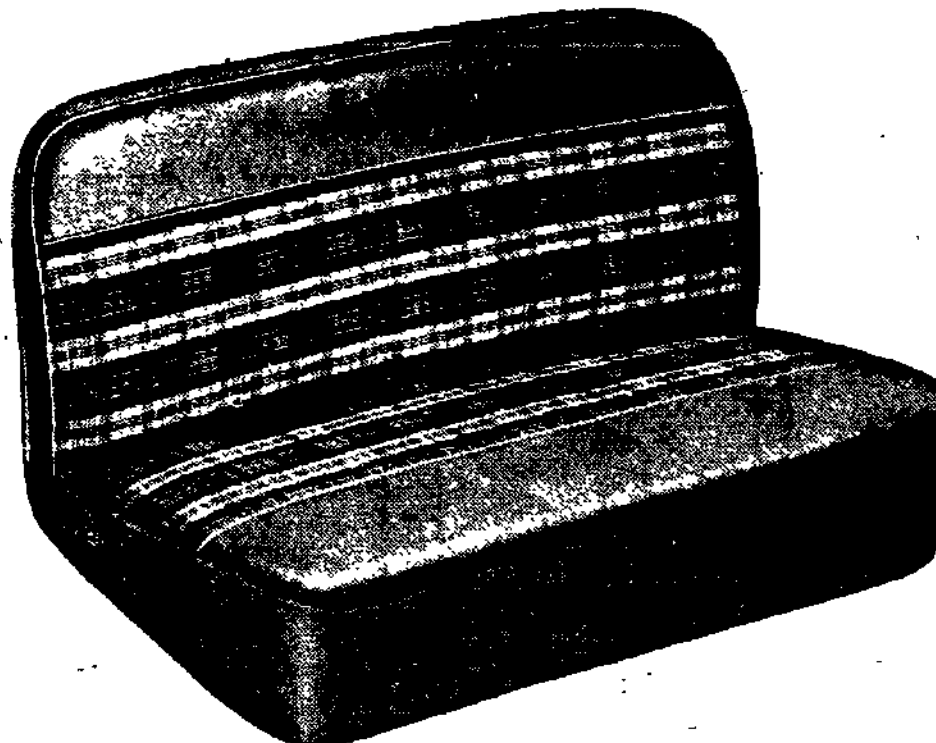

"He's somewhere out in the hills with a wound in the shoulder, a pair of bracelets on his wrists and Al Sanders hot on his trail. He took Al's gun, which makes him Al's bitterest enemy. Al don't like to have prisoners help themselves to his armament."

The SIREN of SILVER VALLEY

By PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 10

HE saw the slight start that Ben gave, saw the dawning light of understanding come into his eyes. He said slowly, "You mean that Diana's just—just stringing Walt along so he won't take sides against her?"

"Let's say she's just being friendly towards him."

"I wish I could believe that, I sure do."

"I believe it. What in the world could she possibly see in Walt Kirk?"

"Yeah, that's right. The old baboon! But womenfolk are funny thataway." He gave Jeff a long, hard look. "How about yourself? You're right there in the same house with her. You eat with her. You ain't bad to look at. Where do you stand?"

That was putting it squarely up to Jeff. He said, "Mrs. Denton's my boss. She's paying me to do a job and she's paying me. I can tell you truthfully that doing that job comes first in my mind. When we've driven the Stars out of Silver Valley maybe I'll have time for something else. Maybe then I'll be your rival. But until then you got nothing to fear from me."

Ben nodded soberly. "When you've done that job, if you do it, you make tracks and forget about being my rival. No man's comin' between Diana and me."

"Well cross that bridge when we come to it."

Ben looked off into the distance, then pivoted his head towards the Double D. Then he looked back at Jeff. "Much obliged for the hunch. But if I catch him—"

"I wouldn't worry about it, Ben. Well, I'll be seeing you." He waved a hand in farewell and rode on towards Silverstone. When he looked back a bit later, Ben was riding slowly towards the 88.

BUDDY STARR rode along the creek, checking on the positions of the Star Punchers and keeping an eye on the opposite bank for signs of Double D men. Except for the three who lounged near the line shack at the north end he saw not one, and this surprised him. According to Shag Dolan there were fourteen men left on the Double D and the only way Buddy could explain their absence was that they had gone in search of the stolen cattle. When he reached Walt Kirk's fence he rounded it by riding into the water. Here his horse stopped to drink and Buddy grazed a bit wistfully towards the Double D ranch house, the thought of Diana quickening the beat of his heart. From the time Dan Denton had brought her into the valley Buddy had worshipped her with all a boy's clean-minded adoration.

He was careful that his comings and goings were not noticed, not because of fear for himself but because he did not want to subject her to the slightest hint of scandal. That was why he refused to say he was with her at the time Dan Denton was killed.

Now Diana was a widow and, except for the war which threatened, he was morally free to call on her whenever he liked. Inspiration seized him; if he could win her love there would be no war between the Double D and the Star. He was eighteen, nearly a man; she was—well, surely in her early twenties. Not too much difference. And he loved her; he was sure of that.

He spurred his horse across the creek and headed for the house. Diana came out on the gallery as he dismounted, a question in her eyes. Buddy had amused her and she had subtly encouraged him until the boy imagined himself in love with her, but he was the son of the man responsible for the theft of her cattle. Also, she remembered belatedly, the death of Shorty.

HE PULLED OFF his hat and came up on the gallery. "Good mornin', Mrs. Denton. It's been quite a spell since I saw you and I thought I'd ride over." She gave him a cool smile. "Of course. Won't you sit down?"

He waited for her to seat herself, then perched on the edge of a chair and fiddled with his hat. His cheeks were flushed. He sat in silence for a moment then said, "It's nice weather, ain't it?"

Diana said, "The weather's all right, I suppose. And there's no moon. Just right for running off Double D cattle."

He stiffened. "The Star didn't do that; it was Shag's idea."

"Did you come over to tell me that hoping I'd forgive the Star and sue for peace?"

He stared at her for a short space and she returned the gaze steadily, a bit boredly. He stood stiffly and said like a boy reciting. "All right, I'll go. But you'll be sorry. You sure will."

They learn young these days...

It's a good idea to instill the idea of thrift at an early age. Here is a good way to do it: Open an account for your youngster and teach him to make a deposit each time the piggy bank is filled. Regular thrift lessons now will help a lot later in life. Come in; get started now.

Conference Will Consider Standard Test For Schools

A conference of high school and Beaty Junior High officials and faculty members was held after school on Tuesday to consider a standard testing plan for the two buildings.

In the group were Gerald Newton, director of curriculum; Principals Floyd Bathurst and Herbert Harris; guidance counselors, Edna Glasser and Joseph Passaro, from the high school; Mrs. Dorothy Buffton and Carl Harrison, from Beaty.

Under discussion was the information that is needed for scholastic records and that which is asked for by prospective employers and colleges.

As another part of the guidance program in the schools, Mr. Passaro has spent some time at Beaty Junior High during the past two weeks in order to help ninth grade students with preparations for entering the high school in the fall.

New methods have been developed that are expected to permit the canning of whole fresh milk.

Tip to Young Job Seekers: Don't Shun Responsibility

TIP to this year's crop of young job hunters: "What I keep looking for," a highly successful businessman recently told me, "is young people who aren't afraid of responsibility. You'd be surprised how hard it is to find anyone who is willing to make decisions. I don't expect anyone who works for me to make the right decision every time. I'd rather have someone who goes ahead and assumes responsibility and makes the right decision even 50 per cent of the time than someone who comes to me with every simple little problem and says: 'What should I do about this?'"

That actually is what most employers are looking for—someone who will relieve them of small responsibilities, someone who isn't afraid to use common sense on the hundred and one little matters that come up every day requiring a decision.

Once an employer gets hold of a young man or woman who is willing to take some responsibility that young person has the chance to become really valuable to him.

BOSS SEEKS INITIATIVE

BUT no matter how willing a worker a young person may be, or how much natural ability he has, he isn't ever going to be very valuable to his employer if he is afraid to take the responsibility for minor decisions.

It is easy enough to find a person to fill any kind of job, provided the boss is willing to say exactly how everything should be done and to make every minor decision that comes up in the course of a day's work.

But when an employer says: "So-and-so is good at his job. I don't know how I could get along without him," you can be pretty sure that it is because that person is assuming some responsibility and thereby lightening the load for the person who employs him.

So when you take that first job, remember that if you want to be of real value to your employer you'll have to be willing to assume some responsibility.

MENU SUGGESTIONS

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

CHILD experts have a few sensible eating tips for baby. Take a look at them—they may make nighttime more successful for your babies.

They warn over-eager fathers against bouncing the baby about just before his feeding. What baby needs most at that time is relaxation or quiet games. Keep the maternal roushousing for another time of baby's day.

Here are five more practical tips:

1. Hot and cold foods are tempered for small folks. "Hot" foods should be served lukewarm; "cold" with chill removed. Four milk from refrigerated bottles ahead of time, so it will be nearer room temperature.

2. Moderate seasonings, too. Lively curry and paprika are not for the young. They thrive on bland food, uniform in texture and consistency.

3. "Pass your plate, please." Small servings encourage young eaters. Introduce new foods a spoonful at a time. A strange food that is resisted today will be accepted tomorrow.

4. Variety builds an all-around acceptance of good foods that is carried over into adult life. Color contrast tempts lagging appetites. Golden foods are popular, such as strained sweet potatoes, squash, carrots—all excellent sources of vitamin A.

5. Comfort counts. Easy-to-handle dishes that are bright and preferably unbreakable. Small spoons with a shallow rounded bowl and short handle. Choose a blunt-tined fork or adult's salad fork for young beginners. Use easy-to-clean table mats. Make sure the child's chair is adjusted for eating comfort.

Lamb Mousse (4-6 servings)

One tablespoon gelatin (1 envelope), ¼ cup cold water, 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten, ½ cup milk, ½ chicken bouillon cube, 2 cans (3½ ounce) strained lamb, ¼ cup whipping cream, salt to taste.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine egg yolks, milk and bouillon cube in top of double boiler. Cook and stir until thickened. Add softened gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add strained lamb. Cool mixture.

Whip cream until stiff. Fold into lamb mixture. Add salt if necessary. Pour into lightly greased 1 pint mold and chill until firm.

Assembly of God Will Hold Special Services

Some six months ago the Warren Assembly of God church purchased the Prints home, 300 Fourth avenue, to be used as a church and parsonage. Since that time the congregation has been anxiously looking forward to the time when special services could be held.

The church takes great pleasure in announcing these services will begin Thursday of this week, with Mrs. A. N. Chase, wife of the superintendent of the Eastern District Council, Assemblies of God, as the guest speaker. Mrs. Chase is well known and much loved in this movement and has for 30 years had a reputation of being a sound preacher of the gospel.

The series will continue nightly for ten days, with the exception of Monday, May 7. For the opening night on Thursday, an additional speaker will be the Rev. H. C. Ball, field secretary for Latin America for the denomination and overseer for some 400 missionaries in that field. He has recently returned from a six-months tour of Latin America and will be speaking of the progress of these missions, a topic of great interest to all.

The Rev. Alan Baker, local pastor, invites the public to visit the new church home and reminds that services begin at 7:45 p. m.

Scientific Toys for Crib

PLAYBOY, J. G. . . This new plastic gym equipment is recommended by the American Toy Institute to develop muscular dexterity of the crib and playpen set.

AP Newsfeatures

Science has devoted some of its best efforts toward the current record crop of toys for the crib and carriage set.

Since there are approximately seven million babies in the United States under 2½ years of age, it takes a lot of toys to keep them cooing happily, members of the American Toy Institute have discovered.

New plastics make some of the latest ingenious devices for crib play, such as miniature gym apparatus, rattles and such. The interlocking wooden train becomes a practical toy for the youngest set this year with a new design which firmly ties together the rolling stock.

The classic pounding toy appears in a new design which allows for adjustable tensions of pegs to meet the baby's increasing strength from one to four years.

The principle of the suction cup has been adapted to a variety of plastic toys with bell and other sound effects. These can be made to adhere to high-chair trays and play tables. Some of the new rattle styles can be fastened to the sides of cribs.

Stabilizer Says Government Will Halt New Inflation

Washington, May 2—(P)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston assured businessmen today the government will hold the dam against "a new inflation flood" anticipated by Christmas when arms production reaches full tide.

"So far we've only a flash-flood of inflation," he said, "compared to what we could have by early winter without the sternest kind of steps to counteract it."

In a speech prepared for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce at its 39th annual meeting, Johnston promised to write wage-price ceilings off the books "the minute I feel controls are no longer necessary." He predicted that this day is about two years off.

The ESA administrator urged his audience of industrialists not to let down until the job is done. "We can't talk turkey to Communism with a feather duster," he said.

Himself a former president of the chamber, Johnston urged its members to ignore the "fear salesmen" who warn that defense expansion will rebuild the industrial plant and leave the country ripe for a depression.

"The inconsistency of these goose-pimple peddlers is almost a thing of beauty," he declared.

depositing in most cases a check for $190 on the Albert Lea, Minnesota, National Bank along with about $10 in cash. He later appears and deposits more checks on various banks, one of his favorites being the Grove City First National Bank. When the account is established, the bad checks begin appearing.

Chief Evan said that the man opened accounts in two Warren banks last Friday, but so far has drawn no checks against him. Police of the entire area have been on the watch for him, but have not succeeded in apprehending him.

He will do well to stay away from Warren. Many so-called big time operators have come to grief here when they tried their tricks.

Meanwhile, it was reported that a record of the conference on Wake Island last fall between President Truman and MacArthur may be made public today.

Three key Republican Senators—Wherry of Nebraska, Knowland of California and Bridges of New Hampshire—said the report by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer gave new weight to MacArthur's views on Far East policy.

MacArthur is scheduled to be the first and star witness at closed door hearings on Pacific policy opening tomorrow.

Don't blame the grocer

That market-cart full of groceries is a precious cargo these days... and the groceries she has bought will cost more for three full meals than she will pay for one full month of telephone service.

Don't blame the grocer. Blame the dollar. In terms of what it will buy, the dollar is worth less today than ever before.

The dollar is pinching us, too. The cost of running the telephone household, like the cost of running any other household, has been going steadily up and up.

Yet telephone service is still high in value and low in cost. It has never been so valuable to so many people as it is today.

Bob Feller Shooting for Sixth 20-Game Season, Series Win

By The Associated Press

One last ambition—to get another shot at a world series victory—is supping Bob Feller on to that may be one of the greatest seasons of his illustrious career.

Feller, baseball's best right-hand pitcher since the days of Walter Johnson and Pete Alexander, is a fixture in the hurlers hall of fame with his knockout records, two no-hitters and 200 plus victories. The Cleveland right-hander has realized 11 his ambitions—except one. Despite two cracks at it, a World Series triumph thus far has eluded him.

This is the year, avers the erstwhile fireballer. Reaching the twilight of his career, the 32-year-old Feller knows he does not have too much time left. After all, Bobby has been pouring them in since 1936. His right arm still has the cunning but undoubtedly has lost some of the smoke that used to blind enemy batters.

Feller pitched his best game of the campaign last night, whipping the power-packed Boston Red Sox, 7-1, with a six-hitter. Aiming for his sixth 20-game season, and his first since 1947, Bob has surrendered only four runs and 21 hits in 27 innings.

The victory kept the Indians in a first-place tie with Washington. The senators overcame an 8-3 deficit to outlast the Browns in a 13-inning night affair at St. Louis, 9-8. Mickey Vernon's homer off Cliff Fanning broke up the game. Mickey Harris was the winner.

The St. Louis Cardinals took undisputed possession of first place in the National League, whipping Johnny Sain and the Braves under the Boston lights, 5-2. The Braves managed to hold on to second place when Pittsburgh upset the Dodgers in Brooklyn, 6-2. The Phillies tied the Dodgers for third, shading the Cincinnati Reds in a Philadelphia night game, 6-5. New York's awakening Giants made it two in a row with a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in a Polo Grounds evening encounter.

New York's Yankees stayed close on the heels of the American League leaders, tripping the White Sox in Chicago, 8-3. The cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Athletics rallied for eight runs in the 11th inning to route the Tigers in Detroit, 9-1, and end their 10-game losing streak.

The largest crowd of the season, 53,462 fans, saw Larry Doby and Harry (Suitcase) Simpson lead the Indians. Doby batted in three runs with a single and double. Simpson got two hits and scored twice. Bill Wright lost his third straight game.

Home runs by Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra helped Vic Raschi gain his third victory for the Yankees. Orestes Minoza, obtained from Cleveland, made his White Sox debut with a two-run homer his first time at bat. The Yanks played without Joe DiMaggio, who rested a stiff neck.

Rookie Lou Limmer's three-run double sparked the Athletics eight-run uprising against loser Dizzy Trout and Gene Bearden. Hank Wyse was the winner.

Tommy Poholsky gained his second St. Louis victory with a six-hitter against the Braves. He was aided by Stan Musial and Steve Bilko, who hit homers.

Robin Roberts survived a five-run eighth inning by the Reds to register his third victory for the Phils.

A grand slam homer by shortstop Alvin Dark in the sixth won for the Giants. Jim Hearn, aided by reliever Sheldon Jones, staggered through to victory. Paul Minner was the loser. Umpire Frank Dascoli cleared the Cub bench of all 11 players in the fourth inning. The Cubs had been riding him after he had called a balk on Minner.

Ralph Kiner's third homer was one of the 15 hits amassed by the Pirates off four Brooklyn pitchers. Cliff Chambers won his second game throttling the Dodgers with six hits. Erv Fallica was the Brooklyn loser.

Bob Foley Sets New Pole Vault Record in Match Against Oilers

Warren High Dragon thinsides suffered their second straight defeat of the season at Oil City yesterday when the powerful Oil City High trackman trimmed them 62½ to 46½. It was the Oilers' third victory this year in as many starts.

Another all-time Warren High record was broken in the meet when Bob Foley, senior letterman, pole vaulted 10 feet nine inches, three inches higher than the record set by Tom Fressel in 1925 and Bob Gafner in 1930.

Other Warren boys taking first places in the meet were Irvine (440-yd. dash), Rodney Morley (880-yd. run), John Fisher (javelin), the four-lap relay team (Sam De Leo, Krespan, Bud Terry, and Ron Irvine), and Thompson tied for first in the high jump.

First places won favored Oil City thinsides seven to six, the Oilers, lowest of the season, having taken 10 of 13 from Titusville and 11 of 13 from Mercer.

The Oilers took five second places to four for Warren and seven to two in the third place bracket. There was also a two-way tie in each of the first, second and third divisions.

Next on the schedule for Warren is the triangular meet with Bradford and Kane at Bradford Friday.

JUDGE SPEAKS

Judge Allison D. Wade was in Marienville last evening where he addressed a meeting of the Marienville Women's Club. Today, Judge Wade will take part in a panel discussion at West Hickory, sponsored by the Forest County Home Economics Extension office.

DIVORCES GRANTED

Judge Allison D. Wade yesterday granted six divorces in a special session of divorce court, and continued three other divorce cases. Those granted were as follows: Herbert W. Fralick vs. Nellie K. Fralick; Ellen G. Waples vs. Michael W. Waples; Onolee I. Barhite vs. Welcome M. Barhite; James E. Robertson vs. Wilma C. Robertson; Maude E. Myers vs. Ralph E. Myers; and Daniel T. MacDonald vs. Luesther M. MacDonald.

POLICE CALLS

City police answered several calls overnight. A bum working on Liberty street was locked up; several stray dogs picked up; traffic patrolled on Conewango avenue during a fire in Conewango Place last evening; a motorcyclist riding on the lawn of Home street school was reported; and officers were called early this morning when a car was reported parked in the intersection of Hickory and Pennsylvania. They found a motorist who had lost an article from his car in the middle of the Hickory street bridge, stopped the car in the intersection and left it unattended to run back to retrieve his lost goods. No accident occurred, fortunately.

ALLEGED BLACKMAILER MAKES SUICIDE TRY

Bedford, May 2—(P)—A woman charged with blackmail is in a critical condition in Stipes Hospital at nearby Everett with a neck fracture.

State police said Mrs. Josephine Heaton, 47, of Greensburg, turned her auto across the Pennsylvania turnpike at Breezewood in front of a tractor-trailer. The woman's husband, Robert, told officers Mrs. Heaton phoned a relative earlier, saying she planned to kill herself.

Police and police inspectors arrested Mrs. Heaton Monday on charges of sending 30 obscene letters through the mail and demanding money from a Greensburg family. She was to have appeared Friday for a hearing. Heaton, a department store salesman, said his wife had been under a doctor's care for a year.

ual buildings, and Mr. Andersen will be directing.

Official hostesses for the evening, the Beaty Eighth Grade Girls' Chorus members will open the program, singing an old Crusaders' hymn, Beautiful Saviour; Hushabye, Pohlmann; Spring Breeze, Morgan; Gondoliers, Vandevere-Morgan; Spring in Old Vienne, Gibb; Dixie Lullaby, Coyle-Gibb; Shadow March, Stevenson-Gibb. Accompanists for this group will be Peggy Peterson and Barbara Champion.

Lacy School will present its Harmonica Band in these selections for the second grouping: America, Old Black Joe, Peter Cottontail; Tennessee Waltz; Now Is the Hour; Mocking Bird Hill, and Good Night Ladies. Their teacher, Alice Anderson, will be their accompanist.

Next in order will be presented the McClintock fifth graders in a series of folk games: The More We Get Together, old German; Oh! Susanna, American! and Skip To My Lou, American.

Beaty Seventh Grade Treble Choir will have Rebecca Munn at the piano for its group of six numbers: Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child, negro spiritual; Little Red Shoes, Ivanovici; Tambourine Dance, Brahms; Minuet, Paderewski; Oh! Susanna, a novelty arrangement; Southern Roses, Strauss.

Variety will be offered in the next two groups, Seneca pupils in the Rhythm Band Review, and the Home Street Tonette Band. This latter group will play Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star, the Caisson's Song, and Skaters' Waltz.

Concluding, the combined chorus of all sixth grades will sing the following numbers: O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand, Halton; Go 'Way, Old Man, a southern song; Dance, Little Seraphina, a Spanish tune; Elephants' Lullaby, Stevens; Oh, What a Lot You've Missed, an old American tune; All Through the Night, Owen; and Young America Sings, Hopkin.

Many weeks of careful preparation have gone into these various numbers and teachers and pupils feel sure parents and friends will enjoy the results.

Navy Torpedo Bomber Attack Rips Holes

(From Page One)

The front was quiet again Wednesday.

Ineffective Red efforts Tuesday to find a soft spot in Allied lines cost them 1,205 men. That was the lightest toll of the offensive. Nevertheless Red casualties for the drive rose well above 75,000.

Communists mounted light probing attempts Wednesday below the Hwachon dam in the center of the peninsula. These were blocked.
